Please join Gartner Analyst Leslie Fiering for an exclusive presentation
Topic: "The Future of IT: Agility and Real-time Infrastructure"
Speaker: Leslie Fiering, Research Vice President, Gartner

Today, infrastructure and operations leaders are faced with challenges that they've faced for years - like cost reduction and security. But new challenges are emerging - like delivering services to the business with agility, ensuring regulatory compliance, attracting skilled IT professionals, coping with growing pressure from consumerization and mobility - all while moving toward Green IT goals. Infrastructure and operations also has new opportunities to leverage - such as virtualization, improved technologies to automate operational processes and service-oriented architecture - to create a real-time infrastructure. This presentation will cover:

- What are the trends impacting the future of infrastructure and operations and how will these lead to a real-time infrastructure?
- What policies can IT organizations adopt to move toward Green IT?
- How will the future infrastructure and operations change sourcing decisions?
- How can user demands for increasing consumerization be accommodated without inviting anarchy?
